Being a lifelong resident of Santa Cruz, my priority is the maintenance and improvement of infrastructure and expanding the opportunities for more people to enjoy our iconic Harbor. As I grew up alongside the Harbor, I watched it grow from a lagoon into a thriving recreation, commercial fishing, and vacation destination. We had one of the first boats in the harbor and my father was a Port Commissioner when the North Harbor was designed and completed.

As a General Contractor, I have experience managing multiple, complex projects with varied budgets, and my decades of volunteer service in this community have honed my ability to truly listen to and address the needs of others and create a cooperative environment for differing views and priorities. These skills as well as sailing and fishing out of ports and harbors on both US coasts and abroad give me unique experience and perspective.

I admire all that has been done over the years and look forward to seeing the Harbor continue as a recreation, commercial fishing, and vacation destination.
